

Use your CERT skills to take care of yourself, your home and your family. In doing so, you become less of a strain on emergency services and first responders

Use the Map Your Neighborhood program to organize your neighborhood and create a plan for the hours immediately after an event

Deploy as part of a volunteer team under the Incident Command System. Leverage your skills and willingness to be a volunteer – join our team

Gain additional skills and participate in additional volunteer opportunities – E.g.

- Issaquah Medical Reserve Corps
- Ham Radio – Issaquah Communication Support Team
- Basic First Aid, CPR and AED Certification
- Service Support Volunteer - Eastside Fire and Rescue
- American Red Cross Shelters

- Here are some suggestions to volunteer or increase your skills
- More details on volunteer and training opportunities to follow – please check back later or contact us with your questions

– Basic First Aid, CPR and AED

- Take a class and gain a certification

– The Issaquah Medical Reserve Corp is a program of the Issaquah Citizen Corps and details can be found at <http://www.issaquahcitizencorps.com/mrc>

– The Issaquah Communications Support Team serves the City of Issaquah Police Department and Office of Emergency Management in the area of Amateur (Ham) Radio and communications. They also work in cooperation with other city community based organizations including the Issaquah Citizens Corps <http://www.issaquah-hrsg.org/>

– Take an American Red Cross class in Sheltering

– Eastside Fire and Rescue runs the Service Support Volunteer program and we anticipate they will be accepting new applicants shortly

